

CLAIMS:

1. A wireless communication network, comprising:
 - a switch having a port;
 - an access point coupled to the port, the access point configured with a virtual local area network identification value; and
 - at least one wireless mobile terminal communicatively coupled to the access point, the access point performing proxy application services for the mobile terminal, the proxy application services relating to a virtual local area network.